

Analysing Gender Disparity in Nollywood: Using Four Evaluation Criteria

A captivating exploration using data analysis techniques to visualize and uncover insights into gender inequality in Nollywood.

My friends and I went to the cinema to watch one of the most anticipated movies we had been eagerly awaiting. While enjoying the film with a group of friends, some of the ladies in our group expressed their frustration with how Nollywood (the Nigerian film industry) tends to objectify female actors, portraying them primarily as sex symbols. They pointed out that in many Nollywood movies, a female actor is often expected to have an appealing body shape, with well-defined curves, large buttocks if possible, and an attractive breast size that commands attention.

After the movie, we continued our conversation, and the ladies posed some meaningful and critical questions to the guys in our group:

1. Why are female actors stereotyped?
2. Are female actors and filmmakers objectified because the industry is dominated by men?
3. Why does Nollywood infuse elements of romance into its movies?
4. Why are females underrepresented in Nollywood?

They concluded that ladies should not be seen as objects but as creative individuals full of talent, capable of significantly contributing to the industry's development. These questions and conclusions ignited a spark within me, prompting me to delve into data analytics to answer my friends' questions and determine if gender inequalities exist in Nollywood and to what extent.

With these questions on my mind, I set out to use Netflix Nigeria's data between 2013 and 2023 to uncover answers. Over a period of six weeks, I watched over 90% of the movies and TV shows available on Netflix Nigeria, having already seen 50% of the content. This thorough examination allowed me to substantiate my discoveries with concrete examples and observations.

Act 1 - Industry Impact and Economic Contribution:

Growth and Economic Contribution

Nollywood, Nigeria's film industry, plays a crucial role in the economy by offering numerous employment opportunities. It is the world's second-largest film producer, with UNESCO reporting around 2,500 movies and TV shows produced annually. Since its inception in the early 1990s, Nollywood has grown exponentially, becoming a significant cultural and economic force in Nigeria and beyond. From 2017 to 2020, the industry saw an impressive 477.6% increase in annual production, reaching 2,599 productions in 2020.

Over the past two decades, Nollywood's steady growth has led to its contribution of approximately 1.3% to Nigeria's GDP in 2021. According to PwC, this contribution was 2.3% of the GDP, equivalent to around $600 million. Future projections suggest that Nollywood is on track to achieve an annual value of approximately $1 billion. Nollywood is a powerhouse in the Nigerian economy, driving employment, revenue generation, technological advancements, cultural export, and economic diversification. Its impact extends beyond the film industry, influencing various sectors and contributing significantly to Nigeria's economic development.

Act 2 - Quantitative Representation Analysis:

Act 3 - Content Analysis:

Content Analysis

Bechdel Test

Over the past decade, the Bechdel Test has revealed that 72.3% of movies and TV shows fail to meet its criteria, while only 27.7% pass. This stark contrast highlights a significant disparity, indicating a higher incidence of failure compared to success among films and series evaluated by the test.

Female - Directed Movies or TV shows passed Bechdel Test

Over the past decade, 17.65% of female-directed movies and TV shows passed the Bechdel test, while 82.35% failed, highlighting a high failure rate

Female - Produced Movies or TV shows passed Bechdel Test

Over the past decade, 19.7% of female-produced movies and TV shows passed the Bechdel test, while 80.3% failed, indicating a significantly higher failure rate.

Interlude:

1. Bechdel Test Observations

- Widespread Imbalance: A considerable number of movies and TV shows fail to meet the Bechdel test criteria, which assesses the representation of women in the film industry.
- Comparative Rates: The proportion of productions that do not satisfy the Bechdel test notably exceeds those that do, highlighting an area for improvement in gender representation.

This crucial reminder underscores that while the Bechdel test provides a valuable starting point for discussing gender representation in film, it's essential not to rely solely on it when assessing a movie's quality or the depth of its characters. Genuine diversity and complex female characters are vital for achieving a truly equitable portrayal of genders in the film industry.

2. Discussion

Despite its substantial contribution to the GDP, the Nollywood industry struggles with ongoing gender disparities. As my friends often highlight, women in Nollywood are noticeably underrepresented and frequently stereotyped into specific roles, particularly those infused with elements of romance.

The analysis below provides a comprehensive overview that addresses my friends' concerns regarding gender disparity in Nollywood:

- Directorship: The analysis reveals that male directors led 77.9% of movies and TV shows, whereas female directors helmed 22.1%. This starkly highlights the dominance of male directors, particularly the top five, in the film industry.
- Production: Male producers accounted for 57.8%, with female producers making up 42.2%. Despite this near balance, there remains a significant disparity, notably with the top five male producers eclipsing their female counterparts in the movie industry.
- Lead Roles: No significant gender disparity was observed in male versus female lead and co-lead roles.
- Bechdel Test: There was a substantial 433.3% increase in Bechdel test failures in 2018, indicating a notable 44.6% gap between failure and success rates. Failures constituted 72.3%, while successes accounted for 27.7%.

Act 4 - Recommendations: Call for Action

To effectively address gender disparities in Nollywood, strategic initiatives are crucial. The strategic framework, grounded in best practices, outlines six key priorities aimed at tackling these disparities and promoting gender equality.
